52-unit townhouse condo project planned for town

A 52-unit townhouse condominium project is planned for the hillside between Vernon Street and Paradise Road, below Eden Lane, Bethel.

Avery Angevine, of Bethel, one of the principals in Eden Ridge, Inc.—the corporation planning the project—said he would like to begin construction this fall if he gets the required permits in time.

Mr. Angevine and his partner, Barry Saxe, of Freeport, presented their plans to the Planning Board at its regular meeting last Wednesday night.

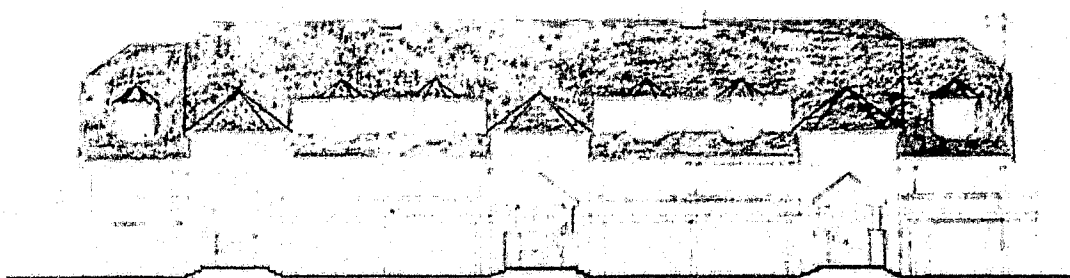

The board formally accepted the developers' application for a subdivision permit. The board will next study the plan for a few weeks, talk with the developers about changing any questionable aspects of the plan, and, finally, schedule a public hearing prior to issuing a subdivision permit.

The eight buildings that would house the 52 units would be spread over a 9-acre parcel of land. Land on the Vernon Street side of the project has already been cleared and a road has already been cut leading up the hill.

The developers also propose linking their subdivision to Paradise Road by extending Eden Lane—currently a dead end—to connect with the subdivision road.

It was this latter portion of the plan that drew over a dozen concerned citizens to the Planning Board meeting. Most of them were residents of Eden Lane, and they expressed concern that their quiet street would become extremely busy with cars going in and out of the subdivision—if the street became a connector between Paradise and Vernon streets.

Barker Brook may be moved to make way for skiway access road

Barker Brook may be moved slightly to make room for the Sunday River access road to be widened and straightened. Sunday River Skiway Corp. President Les Otten told the Newry Board of Selectmen yesterday (Tuesday) that he had applied for permits with the state Department of Environmental Protection and Department of Inland Fisheries for relocating a portion of the brook near the lower end of the access road.

He also informed the selectmen that the initial work of clearing the woods for the redesigned middle portion of the access road is almost complete. (See photo page 11.) The road, with funding by the state, the town and the skiway, is being rebuilt to go behind D.W. McKee's instead of in front of the restaurant.

The selectmen were informed by Willard Wight and Francis Berry, of the Newry Cemetery Association, that the property deeds for the town's four cemeteries were missing. Upon further checking, it was discovered that they had been given to Bethel attorney Michael O'Donnell to hold—or, at least five of the six deeds had been given to him. The sixth could still not be found and the cemetery association officials will go to the Register of Deeds, in South Paris, to continue their search.

The Newry Planning Board will meet tonight, Wednesday, to discuss the comprehensive plan and the planned subdivision behind Coombs Village.

West Paris farm sold

The 140-acre farm of Dick Roy, of Trap Corner, West Paris, has been sold to Ken Snow, of Massachusetts. The papers were signed last week, according to a spokeswoman of Village Square Realty, which arranged the transaction. The sale included the land, house, barn and shed. Mr. Roy has been a summer resident of the area, with a place in West Sumner. The Village Square Realty spokeswoman said he plans to now live year-round at the farm, but has not yet set a date for moving in. She said he is keeping an open mind as to whether or not to continue the mud runs that had brought thousands of spectators and participants to the farm.

Boise developing new plan for cogeneration

In the wake of the Public Utilities Commission rejection of Boise Cascade's plan for producing electricity and selling it to Central Maine Power, Boise officials have decided to revise the project. The PUC rejected the proposal last month because the price to be charged CMP was considered too high and the price CMP would charge the public was considered too low. (On the other hand, union officials suggest that the PUC board's rejection of the Boise plan was a political move designed to express the state administration's dissatisfaction with the company's unwillingness to negotiate with the striking paperworkers. A company official declined to comment on this allegation.)

The project, originally expected to cost $140 million, envisioned producing steam for mill operations and, at the same time, producing electricity from that steam—enough electricity to furnish power to 80,000 households. The project had received the necessary permits from the state Department of Environmental Protection.

When the PUC commissioners handed down their unanimous decision against the proposal last month, Boise officials said the electricity-generating aspect of the project might have to be abandoned. Now, however, Boise officials have informed the PUC that they will submit a revised proposal this month.

Boise spokesman Sam Donaldson said the revision would cause a two-year delay in both the start and the completion of the project. The earliest the project could be completed, if the revised plans are accepted by the PUC, would be late-1990, he said.

Mr. Donaldson declined to say in what way the plans would be altered—whether scaled down, scaled up, or simply priced more economically. He did say, however, that the power contract with CMP would be revised, indicating the price of the power would be reduced.

Head Start finds liability insurance

The anxiety surrounding the ability of the Head Start centers in the area to continue to operate has abated: a company has been found that will provide liability insurance for the four area centers.

Director of the centers, Debbie Damon, of Oxford County Community Services, told The Citizen the good news yesterday, and then added, "Unfortunately it's going to cost us over $10,000."

Two years ago liability insurance for the centers cost $1,200; last year it cost $4,600. (The total annual budget for the centers is $324,000.)

Nevertheless, not having liability insurance was a bigger problem than having to pay an outrageous amount for the coverage. And all summer long Ms. Damon had been fruitlessly searching for a company willing to insure the centers against liability suits. W.J. Wheeler & Co. finally placed the coverage with National Casualty.

The policy will cover the four centers, all the staff and all the students. Ms. Damon said. There are 116 children enrolled in the centers this fall—99 in the Head Start program, and 17 in the day care program. There is a waiting list of children for all the centers.

The centers are located in West Bethel, Rumford, Norway and Oxford. A fifth center, in East Sumner, was closed last spring due to federal budget cutbacks.

Ms. Damon said the OCCS plans to move the Norway center from Norway Lake to the Methodist Church. The additional space will allow the Norway center to offer day care. The move will likely be made early next year, she said.

Milk strike flops; local dairymen don't take part

Attempts by organizers to get a nationwide milk strike going had little success this week.

In Maine, only about 30 farmers kept their milk off the market, with a few dumping it on the ground.

In other parts of New England it was a similar story.

Locally, none of the half-dozen area dairymen took part in the protest against low milk prices. (Prices are hovering around the federally set floor price of $11 per hundred pounds of milk. Strike organizers say they want the price paid them by the wholesalers to increase to $23 per hundred pounds of raw milk.)

Sonny Hastings, of East Bethel, said the strike was organized by members of the National Farmers Organization, which he considers a radical group.

Local dairyman Tim Carter said the strike would have no effect on prices. "In order to be effective, it would need about 200 (dairy) farmers in Maine (out of 850 total in the state). And then there's also the dairymen in New York and New Hampshire and Vermont. We don't know what they're doing. And people say the farmers in the Midwest—Minnesota and Wisconsin—are upset, but we don't know (if they're joining the strike)."

He said milk prices are likely to rise later this year and next year anyway as a result of a federal program to buy dairy herds in order to reduce the number of cows producing milk.

Local people leaving jobs for Boise; union in jeopardy

Boise Cascade continued this week to hire replacement workers for its Rumford mill, and some people were suggesting that the days of Local 900 of the United Paperworkers International Union were numbered.

As Dan Allen, head of Gould Academy food service, prepared for the new semester, he had one problem: he couldn't find an assistant cook.

His long-time assistant took a job at Boise a few weeks ago. He hired a new man, and two weeks later that man was also working at Boise.

At Gilbert Manufacturing (the former Ekco mill, in Locke Mills), it's the same problem—experienced workers taking off for the better pay and benefits of Boise.

The skiway is also losing workers. (However, the skiway has also picked up workers from among the striking paperworkers.)

Every day, a dozen local people car-pool over to Boise Cascade. They drive through the picket lines, accepting the verbal abuse of the picketers as part of the price to be paid for working at the struck mill.

Mill management is continuing to hire replacement workers to fill the jobs left by the striking paperworkers. Boise spokesman Gary Guimond said the total number of new workers as of earlier this week was over 250.

If the union continues the strike—which is already in its third month—the possibility exists that the replacement workers will gain majority control of the mill and vote against representation by Local 900 of the United Paperworkers International Union when the strike ends.

Boise spokesman Guimond acknowledged this was a possibility.

As one replacement worker said, "In two to three weeks, the way they're going (hiring replacement workers) those guys will be in the minority."

When labor peace is restored at the mill, the workforce will get to vote on which union (if any) they want to represent them.

The Bethel area people going to work at the Rumford mill are mostly experienced workers who are leaving decent jobs. One of Boise's new hires from this area said he took the job "for better pay and security."

Another put it more simply: "Money. Money."

The new hires were happy with the work situation at Boise, despite the 12-hour shifts. "It's going beautiful. Very nice people. The time goes very fast," said one. "It's not physically hard. They're paying for your skill."

This worker said he is still in the training program, which he likes because his instructors stress safety.

Asked whether he felt badly about taking a job that had been done by someone else until that person went on strike, another replacement said, "I have no sympathy for those guys. They turned down a contract that gave them more money than they were getting before. The only thing was the flexibility issue—and they wouldn't even give it a try."

In recent days, however, nearly 50 strikers have quietly returned to their jobs. Their homes are guarded by Boise security guards.

Not everyone called up to take a job has accepted the Boise offer, however. continued on Page Three

New teachers in SAD #44 schools

For the past three years she has taught fourth grade at the Lincoln School in Vinalhaven. Prior to that she was an elementary (kindergarten-grade 2) teacher in Isleboro.

The new kindergarten teacher at Woodstock Elementary School is Robin L. Dempsey of Hanover. She received her bachelor of science degree from the University of Maine in Farmington. While attending UMF, she worked with pre-school and primary students at the Virginia Elementary School in Rumford, the Merobry Elementary School in Mexico, and in the Farmington area.

Teaching one of the divisions of grade 3 at Crescent Park School is Debra Germain-Maselli. She received her bachelor of science from Wheelock College, Boston, and her masters from Lesley College in Cambridge, Mass. For the past three years she has been a teacher at the Sweetser Children's Home in Saco, and had previously taught at the Beacon School in Brookline, Mass.; and at Hampshire Central School, Rindge, N.H.; the Whitman School, Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Vernon Goss is the fourth grade teacher at the Woodstock Elementary School. Mr. Goss comes to SAD #44 with 14 years of experience as a grade 6 teacher in the Berlin, N.H., system. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Maine at Farmington, and resides in Oxford.

The teacher in the new special education composite room at Woodstock Elementary School is Marie P. Hickey. She recently received her masters degree from the University of Maine at Orono, and previously earned his bachelor of science degree from Syracuse University in New York. She has worked with special education students in the Augusta and Bangor areas and taught for the past two years as a resource room teacher in Maine School Union #58 (Palermo).

Opinions

It's time now to win the peace

The battle at Boise is virtually over. The union has only one hope, and that is that the National Labor Relations Board will rule that Boise cannot legally hire replacement workers because the negotiations on a new contract had never reached impasse.

It is a very slim hope. The NLRB is expected to make its ruling later this week. Only 30 percent of all charges brought to the board are found to have any validity.

If, as expected, the NLRB finds no substance to the union's charges, the battle will finally be over. As in chess, when one party has no more options, the game is finished.

The striking paperworkers who packed the Muskie auditorium at Rumford High School last night seemed aware that time was running out for them. They commented: "Nothing new." "More of the same."

The union leaders had told the membership about the expected NLRB ruling, had told them about the bad things Boise was doing, had spoken of union solidarity. But there was no talk of other options. Just stay out on strike.

Meanwhile, Boise has all sorts of options: make paper with salary workers and contract workers; hire replacement workers anywhere in the U.S.; make more paper; once a new workforce is in place hold a certification vote to see if the new workers want the paperworkers union to represent them; make more paper.

Boise has the whole chessboard on which to maneuver while Local 900 waits for outside help.

It's over. Boise has won the battle.

But often winning the battle doesn't guarantee a workable peace.

Last night, after the union meeting, a group of strikers was asked what it would take to get them to go back. "It would take a move on the part of Boise," said one. What sort of a move, the striker was asked. "Anything," was the reply.

Boise can continue to tell the union that the only way it can come back is by unconditional surrender, in which case it can look forward to years of sullenness on the part of any returning workers. Or the Boise managers can understand that the strikers will not make good workers unless they're allowed to come back with some feeling of pride.

The workers seem ready to end the strike. All they need is a word of encouragement and compromise from their employer. bfw

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Forgive me for the lateness of this response, but this is the first chance at mail I have had since February, and in reading through my backlog of The Bethel Citizen I must comment on the letter by Mr. Howe (March 26, 1986) and the following one by Ms. Conroy (April 2, 1986).

The issue is the Maine license plates, which may be resolved by now, but I will risk it. While the lobster indeed does not represent every single person in Maine, it is a well-known symbol of an important Maine industry.

This point was driven home to me a couple of years ago here in Antarctica. I was talking to a New Zealand scientist who asked where in the States I was from. I told him Maine, and went on to further tell him it was in the extreme northeastern part of the U.S., not expecting your average Kiwi (as New Zealanders are called) to know the internal geography of the United States. To my great surprise, he not only knew where Maine was, he also responded, "You have lobster there, don't you?" I was, to say the least, impressed, since before coming down here I could barely name the capital of New Zealand, much less its major industries and exports.

The point of this is that Maine lobsters are literally known all over (and under) the world, and this is a fact that all Mainers should be proud of, even if it doesn't happen to specifically represent the greater Bethel area. There are, of course, many other aspects of Maine which are no less representative than the lobster, but if everyone is going to argue about which one to put on a license plate, perhaps our Legislature should put our grapes on these new plates. This might be the most representative symbol they could come up with.

As the Kiwis say,
Yours, Etc.

To the Editor:

During 1987 the Girl Scouts of the USA will mark its 75th anniversary. Kennebec Girl Scout Council will join more than 300 other councils in celebrating this occasion in a variety of ways.

One of the major projects is the preparation of a history of Girl Scouting in Maine. We need to contact as many persons as possible who would be willing to share their experiences with us. Your readers can help make this task much easier.

Many changes have occurred in 75 years of Girl Scouting:

• Over the years, the paramilitary uniforms of 1912 have given away to uniforms created by such famous designers as Halston, Bill Blass, Mainbocher and Stella Slat.

• Program emphasis has kept pace with our changing times. Today's Girl Scout learns how to get along in five worlds—arts, the outdoors, people, today and tomorrow, and well-being.

• Interest remains high in camping and outdoor activities, tempered by a recognition of the need to master other skills such as interpersonal relationships in an ever-changing world. Career exploration ranks high as well.

Girl Scouting has expanded in many ways during the past 75 years, yet it has retained the roots from which it grew. Girls and young women, from ages 5 through 17, continue to rely on Girl Scouting for skills to prepare them for today's world.

At the moment we are particularly concerned with pulling together materials that will help illustrate the history and maturing of Girl Scouting in Maine. Especially sought are personal accounts of special events and places that are memorable, as well as old photographs, newspaper articles and clippings.

For example, there were numerous

To the Editor:

The Aug. 20th editorial on the space shuttle program omitted a few important facts. One—the impression was given that the space program is fully funded and devoted entirely to the military by a saboteur-funding president. Not so. The present funding is inadequate for the civil arm of the space program due to the vast sums required to reorganize and equip NASA. In its long overdue and unacknowledged role of fiscal restraint Congress has not seen fit to raise this money. For many years NASA had a nearly exclusive use of the program for civil purposes, only to start blowing up billion dollar shuttles as fast as they were made. The present course of action came about due to the recommendations of the Presidential Challenger Investigating Committee.

With respect to our military rearmament it only makes sense to have parity in strategic weaponry, as well as strength in conventional arms. If there is more to protection than a strong defense perhaps the publisher would enlighten us as to what it is. Apparently 75 percent of the American people are glad at last he have a president who is able to put first things first and not indulge in fuzzy thinking. "Rambo or no Rambo!"

local Girl Scout councils during the early days. As the program expanded, local councils began to combine forces in order to keep pace with the growth, and increase the financial base needed to sustain Girl Scouting.

Unfortunately, few written records remain of these earlier councils. One of our aims is to recover as much as we can in order to present an accurate picture of Girl Scouting's growth in Maine. Any help or information your readers can provide would be most appreciated.

All material will be promptly acknowledged. Photos and clippings will be carefully copied and returned.

Helpful hints for parents and others who care about kids
By Paulette Coty, M.D., Pediatrician

Ear Infections

An ear infection is an infection behind the eardrum. These infections occur in children and infants in association with colds. When a cold occurs in an infant or child the virus causing the cold causes swelling of the small tube that leads from the back of the throat to the middle ear. When this tube (called the Eustachian tube) gets blocked, it does not allow for the fluid which is normally produced in the middle ear to drain. This fluid then becomes infected with bacteria and causes the eardrum to react by getting inflamed and thickened. This causes pain and hearing loss. Only 30 percent of infants with ear infections have fever. The most reliable signs of the ear infection are fussiness and pulling at their ears.

Ear infections occur more often in infants and young children because the tubes between the throat and the middle ear is horizontal (straight across) where in an adult or older child it points downhill into the back of the throat and drains easier. Another reason young children get more ear infections is because they are getting more colds than adults or older children. These two reasons are why many infants "outgrow" their ear infections.

The treatment of an ear infection is an antibiotic such as amoxicillin, Augmentin, Bactrim, Ceclor and several others. Because the bacteria can sometimes develop resistance to an antibiotic, it sometimes takes several different courses of antibiotics to completely clear an ear infection. Some children after several repeated ear infections are placed on a small dose of antibiotic on a daily basis to prevent more ear infections.

If you think your child has an ear infection, he should be seen by a doctor to have his ears checked and to get a prescription for an antibiotic. Until you can bring your child to a doctor to have his ears checked (such as the middle of the night), you can give a dose of Tylenol (Trempra, etc.) to help decrease the pain. A hot water bottle, heating pad or a warm water soaked face cloth will also help relieve some of the pain. Ear drops should not be used as they may block the ear canal making it more difficult for the doctor to see to tell if there is an ear infection.

The majority of infants and children will continue to have clear fluid in their ears for 4-6 weeks after an ear infection is over. This fluid can produce some mild hearing loss but it can lead to repeated ear infections. When this happens a referral to an ear, nose, and throat (ENT) specialist is made for the possibility of placing tubes in the eardrums to drain the fluid.

Antihistamines and decongestants in the cold and cough remedies have been found not to be of help in preventing or helping to cure ear infections. All they will do is dry up secretions from the nose and make it easier for the child to breathe. Many parents find their children and especially infants have behavior changes such as becoming "hyper" or sleepy with these cold remedies. Certainly, if your child has had these reactions to these cold remedies, do not use them.

The long term consequences of repeated ear infections is not completely known although there is some suggestion that there may be some permanent hearing loss and delay in language development. This has not entirely been proven though and studies are being done all the time that will help to determine the long term effects.

LOCAL PEOPLE LEAVING JOBS

Wendy Cross, of Locke Mills, who had earlier said she thought she could deal with the harassment, on second thought decided she couldn't. "I did get called in," she said, "but it was the same night as the shooting (of a replacement worker's home). So I thought... well, maybe not."

Ms. Cross had earlier been accused by a female picketer of running into her with her car. (The case has not yet come before the court, but local police reportedly found no marks on the hood of the vehicle, where the picketer said she landed.)

"I was a nervous wreck," admitted Ms. Cross. "I was afraid to go anywhere. I felt a big relief (when I decided to turn down the job offer)."

Meanwhile, the company has intensified its recruiting drive for new workers. It is recruiting throughout New York and Pennsylvania and in Houston, Texas. It has set up an 800 number so that potential workers can call from anywhere in the U.S. To date, over 2,300 people have applied for the 1,200 jobs previously held by the strikers, according to company spokesman Guilmond. He added, "We really would prefer our own workers back."

Union officials floated a story over the weekend that negotiations were about to start again under the sponsorship of the federal mediator. Boise spokesman Guilmond said there were no talks scheduled and said no one at the company had had any discussion with the federal mediator about scheduling talks. "There is no room to bargain," he said.

The company has taken the position that the negotiations were at an impasse when the union went on strike July 1. Therefore the company implemented its final offer.

The union claims the talks were not at impasse and has charged the company with unfair labor practices for alleging that they were. The National Labor Relations Board regional office, in Boston, is expected to rule on the charge later this week. Should the NLRB rule in favor of the union, the new workers hired by Boise would have been hired illegally.

The Citizen attempted to contact the federal mediator without success.

Earlier he had characterized the company's contract proposal as follows: "The objectives laid down by the company are extremely ambitious."

He predicted, in the closing days of the negotiations in June, that if talks broke down, "There would be a first-class strike."

Last night (Tuesday) the striking union local met in the auditorium at Rumford High School. Officials said there was 100 percent attendance except for those union members who had taken other jobs and were working at night.

The officials held out the hope that talks would resume and that the NLRB would rule in favor of the union on the question of whether or Boise could legally hire replacements.

An expected call from the rank and file for a new vote on the "final offer" did not materialize.

52-UNIT TOWNHOUSE

The developers said Eden Lane is essential to their plan in order to have two ways in and out of the subdivision.

Another concern is the steep grade of the ridge which the subdivision road must traverse. Even with switchbacks, parts of the road may exceed the maximum grade levels permitted in town.

Sheila Harrington, who owns a lot on Eden Lane, complained that more subdivisions in town will eventually mean higher taxes in order to pay for the extra services needed by the added homeowners. "Somewhere down the line the fire department, the police department, the schools are all going to have to increase," she said.

Not in the case of Eden Ridge, the developers said. The condos will be marketed to seasonal residents, they said, who want to come to the Bethel area for skiing or golf or NTL. The owners will not be placing children in the schools. On the other hand, the developers said, they will pay about $90,000 in taxes to the town.

The developers declined to say what the price range would be for the condos.

The project will likely be discussed again at the Planning Board's next meeting, Sept. 10, said Chairman John Gray.

PART OF THE ROAD LEADING INTO EDEN RIDGE SUBDIVISION is visible from Vernon Street. The upper end of the road would connect with Eden Lane.

Marine Pfc. Michael S. Verrill, son of Harold S. Verrill and Betty M. Verrill of Bryant Pond, recently reported for duty with 2nd Force Service Support Group Camp Lejeune, N.C. A 1985 graduate of Telstar Regional High School he joined the Marine Corps in November of 1985.

The chilly nights this week makes one realize that summer will soon be over and with Labor Day coming, the school buses will be rolling again, taking all the youngsters to school. A time for remembering what the summer has brought and looking ahead to what autumn and winter has in store for each of us.

It has been a busy week here with my two granddaughters here, keeping things lively. It gets harder and harder for my old legs to keep up with them but I enjoy watching them at play. Courtney has quite an imagination and Kariann tries to do many of the things her sister does. It's most as good as a circus.

Russell brought in string beans to be canned and we had the nice spicy smell of pickles as we made zucchini relish, just to use some of the many zucchini growing in the garden. The plants are producing more zucchini than we can use so gave some to a neighbor to use. We hate to see them go to waste.

Thanks to those who gave me some new recipes for using zucchini. I like trying new things and even though we have a zucchini recipe book, there are many other ways to use them. I make casseroles from the small to medium size and frozen more sliced zucchini to have the winter for that purpose. I hope they work good as I haven't tried to freeze the slices before. If it works good, I'll try more another year.

Went to North Bridgton on Monday to see my doctor as I do every week. Back treatments, allergy shots or other shots for pain or whatever keeps me going somewhere. Went to Norway to have a check-up by my respiratory doctor. Lungs are clean which is good but have had trouble this summer with good old allergies. Others have said this summer was worse for them, also.

Peggy came home on Monday to have a sore leg checked. Got a bone bruise some time ago and it was bothering a little. It takes a long time for bone bruises to heal as I well know. Got one last May and it still bothers. While Peggy has been home, her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard White of Auburn, called on her. Also her youngest daughter, Mrs. Loretta Merrill of West Bethel, came to visit with her one afternoon.

I am in Lewiston as I write this. My daughter, Wynona Wolf, has been on jury call and this is the reason the girls were with Russell and I. Wynona came to get them on Thursday but needed someone to stay with them evenings so Grandma came for a visit to stay with them.

As director of adult education in Auburn, she is so busy she doesn't have much extra time for herself. I think it is great that there are so many classes an adult can take to better themselves or just a class to enjoy. I went for some classes several years ago and enjoyed them thoroughly. To be able to get a diploma in later life can mean so much to a person. As Wynona has said, the excitement of graduation is as good for an older person as a young person, maybe more, as their family joins in to help them celebrate their success.

Speaking of school and buses rolling

DARLENE HADLEY (right), of West Paris, is one of 12 lucky winners in the Deering Ice Cream College Sweepstakes. She recently received a check for $10,000 from Charles Stickney, Jr., president of Deering, Anita Stickney, chairman of the board, and former senator Margaret Chase Smith. Ms. Hadley will use the award to help her complete her degree in accounting at Mid-State College, in Auburn. She had to give up going to school last winter in order to earn money. She works at Smith's Shop 'n Save, which is where she picked up her entry form for the contest. "I joked all along that I was going to win," she says.

A night of rain! The trees were drenched and the air was cool when I set out for a familiar walk. All down the slopes there was a rare and shining beauty. Trees were decorated with glowing drops of water. They resembled pussy willows, pussy willows of rain.

In the light that appeared across the landscape, the rays of the sun grew stronger. I watched these cross the valley and probe among the tree tops then move on to the ridge in the west. This morning seemed to hold a new quality of its own, a new freshness and beauty. To have the sun again after so many clouds made the world more inviting.

The brook made a strange eerie music like the tinkling of a thousand chiming little bells.

There was the smell of wet mosses and fungi.

With no haste the cows ambled forward in the pasture, each one a personality aloof and proud.

Down across the wide land clouds threw shadows, the mountains were blue gleaming ridges across the valley.

In the distance two birds vied with each other, as they sang a duet high in the blue air.

I noticed a bird's egg had become speared upon a tall grass stem, and swayed gently, like some exotic harbinger.

Near by a bumble bee dived against the jewel weed; its scaly leg tapping against the blossom.

These were country sights, sounds, and scents that were trying to bring me inner happiness.

As I neared home a few ducks were paddling and feeding out front of my house and a long legged heron was standing like a solemn sentinel.

I climbed the driveway then turned to look over the valley. How lovely were the hills, how lonely the house.

Another day I'll ramble again before the hills are stripped of their green.

A surprise 45th wedding anniversary party was tendered Paul and Cecile Poisson Saturday afternoon hosted by their children. Sue Pouliot and Paul Poisson. North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

Joe Reddy, son-in-law Mike and his two children came to the Reddys' trailer Friday then motored to Aurora which is located 20 miles beyond Bangor and spent Friday night there, returning to North Paris Saturday evening and it was well they did as the former CCC camp where they stayed had a leaky roof. They returned to Tyngsboro on Sunday. Mrs. Reddy's back is better so they came for the long holiday weekend and enjoyed our community supper on Aug. 30.

A heavy thundershower early Sunday lots of rain and sharp lightning. A bolt of lightning sneaked into Joe Vatcher's house and entered the channel box of the satellite and ruined it so it was shipped to the Drake Company for repairs. It hit the big black dish in the yard but did no harm. Such a loud crack that seemed to be right near our heads. We didn't turn on the satellite until Monday p.m. then we discovered the damage, so we listen to the Red Sox on radio. Eveline doesn't care for that kind of ball games so she reads and does a crossword puzzle. We hope to be back to normal Sept. 2.

Several weeks ago a very loving tiger cat arrived at the Vatchers and is living in the garage. Eveline had heard many times that it was a signed of good luck for a cat to appear and make it's home with a new family. Tuesday morning at 2:30 p.m. the two deep freezers stopped working. The trouble was found but one wanted to go back to work so we had to buy a new chest freezer pronto. The konked out one was full and the upright one was nearly full. A man couldn't be found to help take out the old one and replace it with the new one so Eveline went out and did what she could. She had one oven full of bread and it kept right on baking. The cat is the only lucky one in this case. Just can't win.

The blackberries at "Big Rock" are all done. The heavy rain Sunday made a lot drop off so they're all done for this year. They were good while they lasted. Thank you Joe K.

Cornie Labbe has been having ear infection for a whole week.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham, Phoenix, Ariz., came Saturday and will stay with her uncle, Arnold Coffin, at his trailer and visit his and her relatives. Mrs. Pinkham's brother, James H. Goff of California is expected to arrive Sept. 3 or 4 and he will be with his sister's family, the Norman Abbotts, Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher went to Swampscott, Mass., on Wednesday to see his sister, Fannie Whitten. Took her new apples, fresh and frozen vegetables, then went to see Joe's mother, Mrs. Fannie Vatcher, at the nursing home. It rained hard all the way to Massachusetts, then the sun came out and it was hot, hot. They stopped to see a good friend of Joe's, Dominic Pittewick and were told that he had passed away Aug. 13. Two years ago he spent a week at the Conservation School, Bryant Pond. His subject was Bees. He was a beekeeper.

GROWTH CONTINUES AT UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

The Unitarian Universalist Church of Bryant Pond announces several signs of renewed vitality, including a new interim minister and weekly services this fall. The Rev. Earle T. McKinney, who served UU churches in Massachusetts and Illinois, then in Portland and Caribou, Maine before retiring in the spring of 1985, will lead services each Sunday in September and October. For September he has prepared a series of sermons on some of the common assumptions and beliefs that form the basis of Unitarian Universalism. His topic for this Sunday, Sept. 7, is, "What It Means to be Religious." Other sermons this month will focus on liberalism, tolerance, and love. All are welcome.

Church begins at 9:30 a.m. and is followed by a social hour in the parish hall. Child care is available during the service. Church members are working on plans to continue weekly services after October and to begin youth programs later in the fall.

The newly formed choir, under the direction of Carol Fiske, will present its inaugural anthem this Sunday. Rehearsals are Wednesday evenings at 8:00 at the home of Pixie Williams and Bob Elliott on the Gore Road in Locke Mills. New members are welcome.

Within the framework of principals and purposes which undergird Unitarian Universalism, each individual is responsible for developing his or her personal theology. Beginning Sept. 23 and continuing each Tuesday evening for eight or nine weeks, the church will offer a workshop titled, "Building Your Own Theology," a series of classes and activities designed to help participants develop and articulate their own belief system. Led by the Rev. Glenn H. Turner, District Minister for the Northeast District of the Unitarian Association, the workshop is open to anyone interested, up to a maximum of 10 participants. Registration information or more information on the workshop, choir rehearsals or other church activities, call 875-5255 evenings.

fan and a receptacle in the entry room so we would have a place for the new coffee maker away from the busy food area. He donated his time and labor and we appreciate it all. He is a former North Paris boy.

Callers at the Lawrences: Walter Polvinen, Arnold Coffin, Jeffrey Coffin, Elizabeth Knights, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Heath, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Gertrude Birney and friend, Anita. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher brought two lobsters. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bean brought a lot of vegetables. Polly Lawrence brought a lot of goodies and Mione Records a blackberry pie. Anybody on a diet?

Andover
By LAURA HUTCHINS

A sunny, but chilly morning. Just 34°F. at 6 o'clock. The garden shows it was colder earlier, as squash leaves and bean tops were hit by frost. This has to be the strangest and shortest summer on record.

A correction for last week's column—Robert Cuff was unable to come for a visit to the Chenerys. Only Vicky and the children are here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins visited Mr. and Mrs. Greg Adams and family in Sweden on Sunday, Aug. 24. Robbie celebrated his seventh birthday on Saturday, the 23rd.

Our orange tree is sending out a bumper crop of oranges. Several have dropped off but at this writing there are 38 that are still set on, with many blossoms yet to set oranges. It's only a miniature tree with a stalk far too small to hold up that many oranges. We had ignored it for a few months, then discovered it was budded so Bernard set it outdoors. It has sent out lots of new growth, over a foot long that has blossoms and oranges on it, as well as the older branches being well blessed with fruit setting on. It will be interesting to see if these are larger than the first ones were and just how many will remain intact to mature.

Misses Miranda and Calla Cobb arrived Monday night to visit their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hutchins. They returned home Wednesday night. While here they enjoyed a picnic at Flat Road.

The Aug. 23 supper at the First Congregational Church was a success, as usual. The next one, set for Sept. 27, is the annual birthday supper, complete with birthday decorations for each month and specially decorated birthday cakes. Posters will soon be out, listing the complete menu. If there is anyone who would like to decorate a table and make and decorate a cake, please contact Mrs. Harvey Fisher, who will tell you which months are available. If you have never been to the birthday supper, make this the year to attend.

Mrs. James Sennett, Jr., East Andover, and Charles Jodrey, Andover, recently returned from a trip to parts of Canada.

Our thought and prayers are with Mr. and Mrs. Gary Williamson of Andover, and Kathy's daughter, Tylen Dewar, who was seriously injured in an auto accident last Sunday night (Aug. 24). She is at Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston, where she underwent surgery on Monday for back injuries. It is reported that she will be in a body cast for six months.

A special thank you to all who have helped on the Ladies Aid luncheons so

PILGRIM FELLOWSHIP BEGINS AGAIN

The West Parish Pilgrim Fellowship meets at the Congregational Church in Bethel every Thursday from 5:30 to 7:00. Participants enjoy a meal and a program of learning, recreation and Christian fellowship.

Past programs have included guest speakers on such areas of interest as Heifer Project, mission work in Honduras, a Vietnam veterans' experience, surviving the Cambodian massacre, and teen sexuality.

Through the year the group goes on small outings, and at the end of the school year, takes a major trip. In the past three years they have traveled to New York City, Washington, D.C., and Montreal. Each year also the group has been some local service projects and contributed to mission work in the world.

If you attend high school, you are welcome to join P.F. The first meeting will be Sept. 11. The Fellowship hopes to see new faces along with past members, and is looking forward to another successful year.

faithfully. We could not have completed the eight weeks without your help. Also a thank you to those who have supported us and attended the luncheons. God bless you all.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Balentine of Bridgewater, Mass., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway this past week.

School began this week. Everyone is in a rush. Some were at their schools last week preparing for the children who are entering their room for their first class. This has been another rainy day. Felix Otero-Otero is having a hard time finding a good painting day on my house. This miserable wet weather doesn't help a bit. The Historical Society committee for their supper met with Esther Davis Tuesday night.

Mrs. James Mielon, Elishia and Amanda, went to the circus held in Amesbury last Sunday night.

Esther Davis was in Wilton Sunday where she attended a birthday party of a cousin, John McGillicuddy. John is a dispatcher for the police, firemen and ambulance rescue unit for the towns of Jay and Wilton. They party was put on by these departments.

Olive Davis was in Bridgton at her niece's Sylvia Andrews, where a birthday party was tendered Gail McGillicuddy. Several of the family were present. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway and

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hall and son, Gregory, Bethel, Conn., visited Aunt Florence Hall, and took her out to dinner on Thursday.

Anne Fox attended the Thursday luncheon at the CEB. Gertrude Hutchins and Leatrice Mysh-rall celebrated birthdays on Aug. 28.

Mini bus riders this week were Elizabeth Sennett, Catherine McGuire, and Bernice Glover.

Thought for the Day:

—That Time Again

It chugs and puffs and billows smoke
Those at the curb can start to choke
And as it stops, it grinds and groans
To all the kids' collective moans
Resigned, they climb back inside and then

It slowly pulls away again.
The yellow monster comes, it seems
To end for now their summer dreams;
Because in fall there's one hard rule
It's time once more to start to school.

Visiting Jor and Muriel Gilbert this week have been: Donald and Donice McDermitt, Pensacola, Fla.; Pauline St. Peter, Scarborough, her niece from Cape Elizabeth; Florence and Bernard Pijotte, Locke Mills.

Marc, Leslie, Nathan and Jennifer Moore were shopping in North Conway on Thursday.

Ronnie Smith was in New Mexico for three days last week, a "guest" of the U.S. Government. Ronnie was in a control group taking part in some testing to determine the effects of Agent Orange.

Carl, Brian, and I were shopping in Berlin on Monday.

A frost Friday night took parts of gardens not covered. It is hard to cover corn you know. It's a shame. Some people are just getting their first pickings. It will come off hot now you can be sure.

MORE TOWNHOUSES ARE NEARING COMPLETION at Sunday River's South Ridge area. In addition to the townhouses, the Fall Line condominium hotel is being completed, and work has begun on a new set of condo units along the new trails being developed.

FAMILY FORUM SCHEDULED FOR HEALTH CENTER

Another Family Forum is scheduled for September at the Bethel Area Health Center. The forum is a four session class for adult family members and friends of alcoholics or other drug dependent individuals.

The purposes of the forum is primarily educational. A review of the dynamics of addiction will be presented. Emphasis will be on how addiction affects family members and friends. Participants will begin to identify the personal patterns that they may have developed in order to cope with the illness. They will also begin to understand new behavior patterns and attitudes that will help them feel better and aid in the recovery of those who are addicted.

The staff at the Health Center recognize that chemical dependency is damaging to both the dependent person and those who care for him/her. The Family Forum is a continuing program to provide awareness and support for community members who are affected by the disease.

The class is confidential and held for two hours each week, for four consecutive weeks. The tentative time will be Tuesday evenings, beginning Sept. 16, from 6-8 p.m.

For further information, contact Becky Hardy at the Health Center, 824-2193, or at her office at Tri County Mental Health Services in Rumford, 364-7981.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a garden scene described by D.H. Lawrence—

"Languidly she looked about her; the clumps of white phlox seemed like bushes spread with linen; a moth ricocheted over them, and right across the garden. Following it with her eye roused her. A few whiffs of the raw, strong scent of phlox invigorated her. She passed along the path, hesitating at the white rose-bush. It smelled sweet and simple. She touched the white ruffles of the roses. Their fresh scent and cool, soft leaves reminded her of the morning-time and sunshine. She was very fond of them... But today out-of-doors she felt forlorn."

The next society program will be on Melodie Dunham. It will be a musical evening.

Thanks to Ruby Emery for her recent donations.

Also thanks to Ruth Haskell for her thoughtfulness.

Crisports is also introducing the latest in family fleecewear, corduroy hats, and gifts, including mugs, calendars and cards.

The Western Maine Board of Realtors is proud to announce that they have formed their own Multiple Listing Service. There will be an open house on Tuesday, Sept. 9th, 10-12, at the office in Naples.

What is a Multiple Listing Service? Read on:

Multiple Listing Service is the modern way to buy or sell a home. It is offered through the cooperative efforts of the member offices of the Board of Realtors. Information on available homes is pooled to afford a larger and better market place for both home buyers and sellers. You select the Realtor of your choice. Through MLS®, he can tell you about not only the homes he is handling, but those of all other member offices. As a buyer, you have the widest possible selection. As a seller, you have many Realtor-MLS offices and their salesmen working for YOU!

When buying a home—your MLS Realtor can help you identify the type of home in the location and price range you desire. Because of MLS, he will have many homes from which to choose. This saves you time, effort and money. Once you have made your selection, he can assist you in arranging the necessary financing and other details. Best of all, you pay no extra or special fees for this valuable service.

When selling your home—first your Realtor advises you of present market conditions, then he examines your property and carefully lists all its features. Then a photograph is taken of your home. The information and the picture are duplicated and sent to all member MLS offices. Your Realtor will expertly promote your home and offer suggestions on how to increase its sales value and show it to best advantage. Your home will be shown to more qualified potential buyers, therefore bringing top market values to you. All of this results in a prompt, profitable sale.

You deal with qualified salesmen—all salesmen associated with the Multiple Listing Service are required to strictly adhere to the national, state and local board Code of Ethics. They must also meet the licensing requirements of their state. They further have the opportunity to attend frequent seminars and instruction programs, as well as real estate appraising courses. These are professional people who, through training and experience, are best qualified to assist you in the sale or purchase of your home.

LAMB FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

A reunion of the six children of Conrad W. and Celia Smith Lamb, and their families was held during the week of Aug. 9 to 15, at West Paris, Woodstock and Locke Mills. All 63 of the descendants were present during the week's activities, which included a supper in the dining hall of the Universalist Church in West Paris, on Saturday evening, Aug. 9. Other activities included camping, swimming, fishing, canoeing, boating, hiking, jogging, and much picture taking. A softball game was in progress Saturday afternoon before being suspended due to rain.

Special blue "Tee-shirts," with a logo designed by Judy McLaughlin, were purchased and worn by most members of the family, showing they were members of the "Lamb Family Reunion 1986."

Several gatherings were held at Littlefield Beaches, Locke Mills, and at Sayward and Cynthia Lamb's cottage on North Pond, Woodstock, where slides and movies of past gatherings were shown, to the delight of all attending. Many of the group especially enjoyed hikes up the mountains to pick wild blueberries and enjoy the beautiful scenery of the area.

Those attending were: Newton and Joyce Lamb, West Paris; Joseph Lamb, Santa Barbara, Calif.; Michael and Judith Lamb McLaughlin and children, Nina, Kyra, and Kelly, West Paris; Allen and Myrna Lamb and children, Amber and Aaron, Middletown, Conn.; Margaret "Peggy" Lamb, Pullman, Wash.; Kenneth and Sandra Lamb and children, Tina and Kenzie, Greenwood; and Wendy Lamb, Portland.

Stanton and Jennie Lamb, Philadelphia, Pa.; Dennis and Mary Lamb and children, Michael and Stephanie, Philadelphia, Pa., and Diane Lamb Straw and son, Richard, of Philadelphia, Pa. J. Hayward and Mary Lamb, Charleston, S.C.; Daniel and Pamela Lamb Doshier and children, Daymon, Aaron, Naessa, and Lauren, Centerville, Va.; Stephen and Patricia Lamb Homy, Stony Brook, L.I., N.Y.; and Nancy Lamb, Charleston, S.C.

A Sayward and Cynthia Lamb, West Paris; James and Diane Lamb and children, Kristina, Carol and Kelsey, Oxford; Ronald and Donna Lamb, Sebec; Blaine and Natalie Lamb Morse and children, Marjorie and Nathan, of Oakland. Elaine Lamb Blossom, North Branford, Conn.; Teresa Bryant and children, Zachary, Nathaniel, Devin and Leonard Bryant, North Branford, Conn.; George and Marcia Lamb Whittemore, Norway, and sons, Wayne and Blaine, Norway.

Sunday, Aug. 10, 55 members of the family traveled to Gorham, Maine, to attend the annual Lamb reunion of the descendants of James and Lucinda Hoar Lamb, which was held at the home of Jack and Marcia Berman.

All agreed that these reunions were well worth the effort taken to attend. It was a time for the first and second cousins to get to know each other, as many had never met. Those of the older generation had the opportunity to visit and reminisce, and to enjoy the company of all the families. This was the first meeting of all the children of Celia and Conrad Lamb since 1974, and many cousins had not been together for 15 years or more. It was a time well spent, with memories never to be forgotten, and many asking the same big question, "When can we do it again?"

FREEDOM, REASON, OPENNESS
SEARCHING, ETHICAL
61 million people won't go to church or synagogue this week because they can't accept creeds, dogmas, and myths which don't make sense.
But there is a religion where it is o.k. to say "I don't know—I'm searching," where the individuality of each person is respected and where the whole web of existence is cherished.
We invite you to try us out, enjoy our quest.

Financial success isn't just a matter of accumulating assets.
Protecting those assets is just as important.
That's why you need a "Personal Liability Umbrella" to give you that extra measure of protection where your other cover-

If you're an executive making $30,000 plus, you owe it to yourself — and your family — to find out about this valuable protection, available in most cases for just pennies a day.

MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR PUPIL TRANSPORTATION —MSAD #44

The following policy concerning the conduct of pupils transported has been set forth by the MSAD #44 Board of Directors:

The right of pupils to ride in the school bus is based on their behavior and observance of rules pertaining to proper conduct. Drivers are authorized to enforce these rules and to make suggestions in line with good citizenship.

Meeting the Bus:

1. All pupils must be on time.
2. Pupils walking on the highway to a bus stop should always walk on the left, on the shoulder of the road, facing traffic.
3. Pupils when crossing the highway, should walk, not run.
4. Pupils must not run alongside the bus when it is moving.

On the Bus:

1. Pupils must obey the driver who has full charge of the bus.
2. Pupils must not extend arms, legs, or heads out of the bus.
3. Pupils must go to assigned seats, without crowding or pushing, and remain seated while the bus is in motion.
4. Pupils must refrain from talking with the driver, except in an emergency.
5. Pupils must not tamper with the emergency door or any other part of the bus equipment.
6. Pupils must not mar or deface the bus. Damage done to seats or other equipment must be paid for by the pupil. Students will be excluded from the bus until restitution is made.
7. Pupils must not open windows. This should be done only by the driver, when necessary.
8. Pupils must not fight or scuffle in the bus or create any disturbance.
9. Pupils must not shout to pedestrians or occupants of other vehicles.
10. Pupils must not throw objects out of or within the bus.
11. Pupils must not place lunch boxes or other objects in the aisle of the bus.
12. Pupils who must cross the highway after leaving the bus will wait in the front of the bus until the bus driver directs them to cross the highway.
13. Pupils must not transport any animals, firearms, explosives, or anything of a dangerous nature.
14. Pupils must not occupy the driver's seat, operate the school bus or tamper with any of the controls.
15. Pupils must comply with the instructions of the bus driver in transporting any materials or supplies.
16. Pupils riding to school will be allowed to get off only at their assigned school.
17. Elementary students will be dropped off at their morning bus stop unless they have a note from their parents.
18. Eating and smoking is strictly forbidden.

LISA FRIEDLANDER IS THE NEW OWNER of the Unicorn Flower Shop, on Bridge Street, Bethel. Ms. Friedlander, who had been a staffer at Sunday River Skiway, grew up with flowers and gardens, as her mother is a landscape architect in Boston. (Her mother, Ann Friedlander, is also on the Newry Planning Board.) Ms. Friedlander purchased the flower shop from the Nickerson family. The Nickersons—Danna, George and Kate—will be moving into a home they are building in town. Gillies Realty handled the sale, which was concluded late last week.

If the student disobeys any of the above rules, the following procedure will be followed:

1. Bus drivers will verbally warn the student.
2. If misbehavior continues, the bus driver will submit a bus conduct report to the director of transportation, who will forward copies to the building principal, who will then decide the disposition of the case.
3. If misbehavior still continues, subsequent bus conduct reports should be filed as outlined above, and one of the following actions must take place:
 - parental notification;
 - disciplinary action within the school;

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

School year 1986-87 is underway, and it's good to be back with old friends. There are some new faces too. We welcome Sharon Leino as our new elementary art teacher and Pamela Stock, who will be working in the area of learning disabilities. At this writing we also welcome two students new to this area: Alicia Boutot will be joining grade 2, and Adam Boutot will be in grade 4. Alicia and Adam have moved here from Connecticut.

Kindergartners who are starting school for the first time are: James Bradeen, Jeffrey Brough, Jennifer Brough, Holly Buck, Candice Campbell, Misty Coffin, Kyrie Daniels, Derick Emery, Joanna Farrar, Luke Gizinski, Susan Herrick, Matthew Hiebert, Vernon Inman, Jaime Leonard, Mindy Osgood, Cameron Richards, Eric Smith, Tammy Stevenson, Brandi West, and Buddy West.

Summer maintenance is visible, with fresh paint, repaired fencing and some new carpeting. The Legion Memorial School has new fencing at the edge of the playground—a much-needed addition to keep playground balls on the playground. Also at the Legion Memorial, major repairs to the roof and walls are keeping crews busy right up until the last minute.

Teachers and students are looking forward to new programs and activities as well as many familiar ones. Mrs. Loper's 3rd-graders will begin their writing program immediately. Teaching writing as a process is proving to be a very successful approach—children write, learn and enjoy, all at the same time. Mrs. Clements' 5th-graders did not object to their first homework assignment—looking for caterpillars to start the annual monarch tagging project.

Among the many announcements, forms, etc., that went home the first day was a copy of the school year calendar (which can also be found in last week's Citizen). We hope this will be a convenience for parents. In addition to the usual vacation and worship days, we have included the dates ranks close. Another important announcement concerns hot lunch costs. The prices have gone up. For elementary students, a regular hot lunch is 65 cents, and 40 cents for the reduced-price lunches. Milk remains the same, at 15 cents.

We will be collecting Campbell soup labels again this year and will appreciate all donations. Recipe dog food labels count also. Must be a Campbell product! October is stamp-collecting month and this year marks the 100th birthday of stamp-collecting in the United States. Our Benjamin Franklin Stamp Club will be on the lookout for special activities. If any readers have ideas or suggestions, we would like to hear from you.

We anticipate a busy and exciting school year, so keep tuned to this column for further information.

O.C.C.S. PREPARES

Support services are in place for families temporarily in need of help. At the Rumford Chisholm Center there is a food pantry and home furnishings depot available as well as temporary shelter. At the Market Square office in South Paris, there is a clothing distribution center, and at Chisholm arrangements can be made for clothing through the What-Not Shop in Rumford. For weekend crisis situations Oxford County citizens should call 1-800-822-8255.

Assistance with heating fuel expenses will again be available under the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP). Beginning Nov. 1 and through the winter months families meeting established income guidelines may apply for fuel payments up to $350. Last year 2,436 families received such help.

The self-help home weatherization program designed to save fuel costs is closely tied to the fuel assistance program. Community Service weatherization teams weatherize about 200 homes of the elderly, the handicapped and to families with children in a life-threatening situation. Families able to do the work themselves should ask about Oxford

New ski school director named at Sunday River

The Sunday River Ski Resort in Newry has appointed Rick Hodas as the new director of the Sunday River Ski School. Before coming to Sunday River he directed the Bridger Bowl Ski School in Bozeman, Montana. He has been in the ski teaching profession since 1967 and for the past six years has been involved in ski school directing and marketing. Over the past 19 years he has worked at such resorts as Mount Snow, Vermont; Snowbird, Utah; Mount Hutt, New Zealand; Showdown and Bridger Bowl, Montana.

Mr. Hodas plans to continue to place tremendous focus on the Sunday River "Learn-to-Ski in One Day" program. It is Sunday River's success with this program and Sunday River's position as the fastest growing ski resort in New England that interested him in leaving the west to come east.

Large summer camp to be put up for auction

Camp Chickawah, in Waterford, will be liquidated by auction Saturday, Sept. 20.

The 164-acre camp, on Temple Hill Road, has 1,900-foot frontage on Island Pond.

The auctioneer says the real estate will be sold in its entirety. Furnishings and equipment will be sold separately.

The conditions of the real estate sale require a deposit of $50,000 with the auction company in order to be permitted to bid. The remainder of the sale price must be paid in 60 days.

County Community Services Self-Help Program for faster weatherization assistance.

Other services are available, too: Day care at 24 licensed day care homes throughout the county; Head Start for the pre-school age child; Job Start providing low-interest loans for those starting their own business or expanding existing businesses; information packets designed to assist the unemployed looking for new job opportunities; volunteer programs for those prepared to participate in community activities assisting others temporarily needing help.

Community Services this past year celebrated its 20th year. Oxford County residents needing assistance or knowing a neighbor in need of assistance should call Oxford County Community Services, 743-7716, or call at offices at Market Square, South Paris, or at the Chisholm Family Center in Rumford.
